University of Dundee

Review of External Mission

Graham, Matthew

Published in:
Political Studies Review

DOI:
10.1111/1478-9302.12053_144

Publication date:
2014

Document Version
Peer reviewed version

Link to publication in Discovery Research Portal

Citation for published version (APA):

Graham, M. (2014). Review of External Mission: The ANC in Exile 1960-1990, by Stephen Ellis. Political Studies Review, 12(2), 339-340. https://doi.org/10.1111/1478-9302.12053_144

General rights

Copyright and moral rights for the publications made accessible in Discovery Research Portal are retained by the authors and/or other copyright owners and it is a condition of accessing publications that users recognise and abide by the legal requirements associated with these rights.

- Users may download and print one copy of any publication from Discovery Research Portal for the purpose of private study or research.
- You may not further distribute the material or use it for any profit-making activity or commercial gain.
- You may freely distribute the URL identifying the publication in the public portal.

Take down policy

If you believe that this document breaches copyright please contact us providing details, and we will remove access to the work immediately and investigate your claim.

In External Mission: The ANC in exile, 1960-1990 Stephen Ellis offers a devastating critique of the 'official' history of the ANC by deconstructing the myths surrounding the movement, and revealing the intriguing and fractious nature of its liberation struggle. In this powerful book, based on a wide-range of new sources, including recently released files from the East German intelligence agency, the Stasi, Ellis provides a fresh insight and analysis into the complex and fascinating past of the ANC.

A key theme of the book is to illustrate how the South African Communist Party (SACP) managed to exert enormous influence and control over almost all aspects of the ANC. For scholars of the ANC, the involvement of the SACP within the movement is widely acknowledged, yet Ellis effectively unravels this relationship; for example he demonstrates how this led to an increasingly undemocratic organisation, ravaged by intense factional disputes. Furthermore, many of the more unsavoury aspects of the ANC's past are revealed, depicting numerous incidents of corruption and crime by high-ranking officials, as well as shocking levels of violence and torture directed towards its own cadres. These unnerving disclosures demonstrate how an intricate mix of ideology, security concerns and criminal activity permeated the ANC.

Moreover, External Mission expertly weaves the complexity of the ANC's liberation struggle into the broader picture, assessing how it was intimately linked to major events within South Africa and further afield. A fascinating aspect of the book is the lengths to which the apartheid state covertly combated the ANC's struggle. The reader learns of the changing concerns of the National Party leadership; the tensions and infighting between the various branches of state security; the unaccountable covert operations; and the approval of strategies to nullify the threat, including the support and funding of criminal networks across Southern Africa.

A major strength is the way Ellis is able to link many of the developments within the ANC and the apartheid state, to some of the more uncomfortable issues afflicting South Africa today. For example, the ANC's unwavering commitment to democratic centralism, a growing disregard for democracy and the social problems of the country (particularly violent crime) can all be clearly traced to decisions taken during the struggle against apartheid.

I highly recommend this informative and easily accessible book, which casts new light on the history of the ANC which for so long has been privy to myths, distortions and misrepresentation.

MATTHEW GRAHAM

University of Dundee

This is the peer reviewed version of the following article: Graham, M. (2014), External Mission: The ANC in Exile, 1960–1990 by Stephen Ellis. London: Hurst, 2012. 384pp., £20.00, ISBN 978 1 84904 262 8 . Political Studies Review, 12: 339–340., which has been published in final form http://dx.doi.org/10.1111/1478-9302.12053_144. This article may be used for non-commercial purposes in accordance With Wiley Terms and Conditions for self-archiving

This is the peer reviewed version of the following article: Graham, M. (2014), External Mission: The ANC in Exile, 1960–1990 by Stephen Ellis. London: Hurst, 2012. 384pp., £20.00, ISBN 978 1 84904 262 8 . Political Studies Review, 12: 339–340., which has been published in final form http://dx.doi.org/10.1111/1478-9302.12053_144. This article may be used for non-commercial purposes in accordance With Wiley Terms and Conditions for self-archiving