

University of Dundee

ART ± EDUCATION

Baldacchino, John

Published in:
Sisyphus: Journal of Education

Publication date:
2015

Link to publication in Discovery Research Portal

Citation for published version (APA):

Baldacchino, J. (2015). ART ± EDUCATION: the paradox of the ventriloquist's soliloquy. Sisyphus: Journal of Education, 3(1), 62-79. <http://revistas.rcaap.pt/sisyphus/article/view/7719>

General rights

Copyright and moral rights for the publications made accessible in Discovery Research Portal are retained by the authors and/or other copyright owners and it is a condition of accessing publications that users recognise and abide by the legal requirements associated with these rights.

- Users may download and print one copy of any publication from Discovery Research Portal for the purpose of private study or research.
- You may not further distribute the material or use it for any profit-making activity or commercial gain.
- You may freely distribute the URL identifying the publication in the public portal.

Take down policy

If you believe that this document breaches copyright please contact us providing details, and we will remove access to the work immediately and investigate your claim.

NOTES ON CONTRIBUTORS

CATARINA ALMEIDA dedicates to research in artistic research (developing a PhD thesis at the Faculty of Fine Arts, University of Porto). Grant holder of the Foundation for Science and Technology, and was a visiting researcher at the Finnish Academy of Fine Arts Helsinki (January-February 2015) and at the Royal Academy of Art The Hague (February-June 2015). Since 2011 is researcher at the Arts Education Group of i2ADS — Research Institute in Art, Design and Society, and associate editor of Derivas magazine. Master in Teaching of Visual Arts (2011), University of Porto. Degree in Fine Arts — Painting (2008), FBAUP.

JOHN BALDACCHINO is Chair of Arts Education at the University of Dundee. His work focuses on art, philosophy and education. He is the author of Post-Marxist Marxism (1996), Easels of Utopia (1998), Avant-Nostalgia (2002); Education Beyond Education (2009); Makings of the Sea (2010); Art's Way Out (2012), Mediterranean Art Education (with R. Vella, 2013), Democracy Without Confession (with K. Wain, 2013), John Dewey (2013), and My Teaching, My Philosophy: Kenneth Wain (with S. Galea and D. Mercieca, 2014). He is currently editing volume 1 of the Wiley-Blackwell's Encyclopedia of Art & Design Education: Histories & Philosophies, and writing two new books, on Giambattista Vico and on Ivan Illich.

RITA LUCIANA BERTI BREDARIOLLI is professor of Art and Art Education at the Institute of Art, Universidade Estadual Paulista, São Paulo, Brazil. Her role involves preparing art teachers and coordinating a research group called GPIHMAE (Group of research studies regarding image, history and memory, mediation, art and education). Her research focus is on the relationship of history, memory, images, imagination and art education. She is author of Ao revés do 'pós': Variações sobre temas de arte e educação (2013) and Das lembranças de Suzana Rodrigues: tópicos modernos de arte e educação (2007).

LYNN FENDLER is a professor in the Department of Teacher Education at Michigan State University, USA, where she teaches courses in curriculum theory, philosophy of education, and humanities-oriented research. She is a member of History and Philosophy of Education Research Community of Leuven, Belgium. Her books include Michel Foucault (Bloomsbury 2010) and Historical Approaches: International Handbook of Interpretation in Educational Research (with Marc Depaepe; Springer 2015). Professor Fendler studies the ethics of knowledge by conducting genealogical examinations of unintended harmful and exclusionary effects of knowledge. Her recent research projects include a history of the bell curve, non-representational theory, and gustatory taste.

EBONY FLOWERS is a cartoonist and doctoral candidate in the department of Curriculum and Instruction at the University of Wisconsin-Madison. Born and raised in and around Baltimore, MD, she draws comics to experiment with notions of relationships, memory, and schooling. Her research and scholarly pursuits include anthropology of the senses, non-traditional qualitative methodologies, discourse analysis, anthropology of schooling, and drawing. She is also a former high school biology teacher. You can find more of her work at www.ebonydrawsflowers.com.

ANTÍA GONZÁLEZ BEN is a Ph.D. student at the University of Wisconsin-Madison. She earned a Bachelor's in Elementary Music Education ('09) and a Master's in Social Pedagogy ('11) at the University of Santiago de Compostela, Galicia, Spain. In 2013, she earned a Master's of Science in Curriculum and Instruction with a thesis that examined issues of multicultural music education in Galician textbooks. Antía is currently conducting preliminary research for her dissertation, which will potentially look at the emergence of the notion of creativity in Spain's 1970s educational reform.

CATARINA SILVA MARTINS

THANH PHÙNG, MEd (Catholic University of Leuven, 2007), is currently a PhD candidate at Department of Teacher Education, Michigan State University. Before coming to the U.S., she worked as a lecturer at Vietnam National University, Hanoi. Thanh is interested in educational theory, history of senses and sensibility, poetry, travel, creativity, and love.

THOMAS S. POPKEWITZ

KARIN PRIEM is professor of history of education. She has been president of the German History of Education Association (2007-2011) and is co-editor of the book series Beiträge zur Historischen Bildungsforschung (Böhlau, Cologne) and of the Jahrbuch für Historische Bildungsforschung (Klinkhardt, Bad Heilbrunn). Karin Priem specializes in the social and cultural history of education with an emphasis on the visual, material and media history of education, the history of ideas in education, cultural learning and citizenship, and entrepreneurship and education. In her research she focuses on the material and cultural facets of social-educational transformations while adopting cross-national, multicultural and interdisciplinary perspectives. Her research methodology builds on cultural sociology, cultural anthropology, visual studies, material culture studies, epistemology, and phenomenology.

